RWANDA, INC.: HOW A DEVASTATED NATION BECAME AN ECONOMIC MODEL FOR THE DEVELOPING WORLD

by Patricia Crisafulli & Andrea Redmond

Rwanda, Inc. looks at the key factors that allowed this tiny country to beat the odds—including Rwanda's efforts to encourage private sector development and foster entrepreneurship, and how Kagame's unique leadership approach led to gains in health, education, and food sustainability. They also explore what the future holds for this resilient nation, and the steps it's taking to develop the next generation of public servants. This is a timely look at what other emerging democracies can learn from Rwanda's triumph. More about book at Amazon <http://amzn.com/1137278951> ISBN:978-0-230-34022-0

GREAT PRESIDENTS ARE GREAT PROJECT MANAGERS

The recognition of great presidential leadership is the successful launch of U.S. programs. Some presidents have led a personal commitment that provides a simulated Project Management Office attuned to the major dependencies of a project. This was true of the 26th U.S. president Theodore Roosevelt on the Panama Canal project. He would be the first U.S. president to visit a foreign country in 1906. His visit was not only for diplomatic relationships but to view firsthand the progress and difficulties of the Panama Canal Project. Roosevelt shrewdly steered away from the ceremonial events to conduct an assessment tour of the impacts and risks that could terminate this massive construction project. The health of the construction workers was a big concern. A similar canal project led by the French in Columbia met its demise due to the outbreak of Yellow Fever. Roosevelt eluded the top level planned events in his honor and slyly pulled Dr. William Gorgas into his carriage then slipped out the other side. The doctor obliged his spontaneous inspection of Ancon Hospital offering his experienced knowledge on malaria and yellow fever treatments. He was the Chief Medical Officer for the Canal Zone. The President's next stop was a surprise lunch visit at an employee mess hall that canceled the Tivoli luncheon in his honor. A site-seeing train to Culebra Cut enabled Roosevelt to point out the things he wanted to further observe. His tours included job sites of black workers where he inquired if they had any complaints with their supervision. He did checkups on dam sites, steam shovels, kitchens, and military troops. Roosevelt was aware of the unreported risks that were not listed on the site plans that impacted the critical path to completing this project. He realized that he needed to mitigate these risks for the completion of this canal. The Panama Canal would receive its share of treaty conflicts but, Roosevelt insured it set sail on its inaugural launch. Read more of this history
